Program Note:

Annapurna is a massif found in the Himalayas of Nepal. This range of mountains includes Annapurna I Main which is the 10th highest mountain in the world. Although Annapurna is only among the tallest of the world, historically it has been known to be the most deadly. At this time of this composition the fatality-to-summit ratio is 32%. In October of 2014, 43 people lost their lives because of snowstorms and avalanches on and around the mountain.

I. Sanctuary

The Annapurna Sanctuary is a plateau/glacian basin that lays at an altitude of 4000 meters.It was believed that this was the home to several deities of Hinduism and Buddhism including Shiva who was thought to live at Machapuchare, a mountain located within Annapurna. The Annapurna Sanctuary is a location of spiritual connection as well as a major route for climbers to access the peaks.

II. Sleep

One of the dangers of climbing such heights is exposure to the elements such as cold. This movement highlights the feeling of exhaustion and freezing temperature that accompany the beauty of climbing to the peaks.

III. Steep Descent

For those who are able to return from the trek safely, the descent is joyous however still fraught with danger.
